Celestica Provides Financial Outlook Update Due to Impact of COVID-19

TORONTO, Canada - Celestica Inc. (NYSE, TSX: CLS), a leader in design, manufacturing and supply chain solutions for the world's most innovative companies, today announced that as a result of the uncertainty surrounding coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19), its duration, and its business impact, it is withdrawing previously-disclosed financial guidance for the first quarter of 2020 (Q1 2020).

On March 16, 2020, multiple Bay Area counties in California issued a "shelter-in-place" order, effective March 17, 2020 in response to the spread of COVID-19. As a result, Celestica is required to temporarily stop work on-site at our operations in Santa Clara County and Alameda County until April 7, 2020. Furthermore, the Malaysian government issued an order to close certain business activities between March 18 and March 31, 2020. These government directives are expected to adversely impact Celestica's ability to manufacture products and receive required parts from key suppliers.

The financial guidance for Q1 2020 which we provided on January 29, 2020 reflected the information available to us at the time; however, due to the disruptions and heightened uncertainty caused by the spread of COVID-19 and these government directives, the Company is withdrawing such guidance.

"While these government mandated site closures are strong measures, we must do our part to support global efforts to contain COVID-19 and help ensure the safety of our employees, suppliers and customers," said Rob Mionis, President and CEO, Celestica. "Our efforts to date led to positive results in China where our employee attendance rate is now over 90 percent. And while our global team has done exceptional work to date, the situation is fluid and continues to evolve."

Celestica remains in regular contact with its suppliers and customers to assess impacts and risks for supply chain disruption. Management intends to provide an update during Celestica's Q1 2020 earnings conference call on April 29, 2020.
